

I would like to mention that if you implement copyright protection, an underground market to subvert this will be formed. While this would limit copyright violations, it would create a hassle in terms of enforcement. As a television watcher, I encourage you to let free TV be free and not mandate digital copyright protection.